Edward has been working within financial services for almost a decade.

Starting off his career within a French finance bank, Edward then transitioned into a more client focused role looking at personal wealth management. He has spent the last years within the Financial Advice sector, specialising in assisting clients with their pensions, investment accounts, tax planning with a simple goal, to help those clients live the retirement they always hoped for.

Having obtained his Degree in Business Management and Economics from Nottingham Business School, he has since gone on to obtain his Diploma in Financial Advice from the London Institute of Banking and Finance, ensuring all clients are provided with the highest quality of regulated advice.

Playing rugby to a semi-professional level while at university, Edward still enjoys sports but at a more recreational level, with skiing, rowing, rugby and recently fishing. Having grown up in London he has been fortunate enough to travel to many parts of the world most recently returning from a trip to New Zealand.
